Candid Comments on World Events

When Roosevelt appeared to deliver his address to Congress on the state of the nation, he was guarded by two hundred police, detectives, and plain clothesmen. One sat immediately in front of him armed with an automatic. Another, similarly armed, sat above him in the press gallery. Nothing he said was so eloquent as this as a commentary on the state of the nation. If he had wished to refer to it he could, however, have claimed that J. Edgar Hoover and his G men have done a great deal to improve the state of the nation by reducing with the aid of weapons, the number of public enemies who used weapons in their business of plunder and murder.

It was the state of the nation that drove the Lindbergh's into exile, temporary or permanent. The President always had to be guarded against assassination at the hands of a fanatic or anarchist, but never before were such extraordinary precautions necessary. The present alarming state of the nation dates back to prohibition, when a new word was coined to express a new condition—"scowlaw." They scoffed at the Volstead Act and the 13th amendment and from that it was but a step to scoff at other laws. Repeat threw bootleggers and hijackers out of employment so they turned to kidnapping and other forms of racketeering. Gangsters armed against the police and rival gangsters and the use of automatics and sawed-off shotguns became so general that the Department of Justice had to organize a body of official gun-men to "get" the unofficial gun-men. It will do no good, but it gives some satisfaction to remind certain religious and reforming bodies that the conditions they deplore are the direct result of their own activities, ten, fifteen and twenty years ago.

Vulcan Rock Artists Visit Arrowwood Club

Two rinks of curlers from the Vulcan curling club motored to Arrowwood on Wednesday last week to play inter-town games. The Vulcan rinks were skipped by W. D. Allan and John Wolfe, played Arrowwood rinks skipped by Paul Norton and J. Beagle. As a remarkable coincidence both games were tied 10 all at the 12th end. In the thirteenth end Allan's players won by a point and Wolfe's lost by a point. The Bow Valley Resource commenting on the games says, "The uncanny part of the game is that last year the same teams played in Vulcan and on the last end the scores were 10-10. On the 13th end the scores were the same as this year, 11-10. Personnel of the rinks: Ed Parsons, A. Clark, F. M. Anderson, W. D. Allan, skip, versus J. Mason, R. Dahl, D. Dunnean, P. Norton, skip. "The King is Dead; Long Live the King"

His Late Majesty King George V. Whose death plunged the empire into mourning. The beloved monarch failed to rally from complications following a cold and passed away late Monday night at Sandringham House. He died in the 26th year of his reign at the age of 70 years.

His Majesty King Edward VIII

Formerly Prince of Wales, who succeeds to the throne of his father, the late King George V. The 41 year old monarch will not be formerly crowned for a year hence when the mourning period will have ended.

British Empire Mourns Death of Beloved King

George V, of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominion beyond the seas, King and Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India, died at Sandringham Castle, England on January 26, at the age of seventy years.

The British Empire bowed in grief as the news was flashed round the world, and in remotest outposts the passing of the beloved monarch brought sorrow.

King George observed the twenty-fifth anniversary of his reign on May 4, 1935. No sovereign has come closer to the hearts and lives of his people than King George, and sharing in that universal affection has been Queen Mary. While thrones have tottered and fallen in Europe, the influence of the British monarchy has increased. It is possible that the modern methods of communication have strengthened his intimate touch with the dominions and colonies beyond the seas. His voice has been heard on many occasions, transcending space, and reaching to humblest homes throughout the Empire.

A sudden four-day illness from bronchial trouble, and heart weakness caused his majesty's death. Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales and all members of the Royal family were at his bedside.

Edward VIII Accession
Automatically Edward Prince of Wales, assumed sovereignty as King Edward VIII. Shortly before his death King George signed a document appointing Counsellors of state to administer affairs during his illness. These were: Her Majesty the Queen, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the Duke of Gloucester, the Duke of Kent; the Archbishop of Canterbury; Prime Minister Baldwin and Viscount Halifax.

The new King, Edward VIII is 41 years of age, the fourth bachelor King to occupy the throne. With his accession to the throne, the title of Prince of Wales lapses, and will not be revived until the King has a male heir. The King was the 18th Prince of Wales in British history.

The succession now stands:

1. King Edward VIII, who now succeeds automatically on the death of the late sovereign.
2. The Duke of York, second son of the late King.
3. Princess Elizabeth.
4. Princess Margaret Rose.
5. The Duke of Gloucester, third son of the late King.
6. Prince George, youngest son of the late King.

Should a son be born to the Duke and Duchess of York, this son would of course take precedence over both princesses, despite the fact that they would be his senior in years. This custom accounts for the fact that the only daughter of the late King, Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles, is not ranked in the order of succession.

Life of King George
King George and Queen Mary have been pre-eminent for their devotion to their people, and their lives have been conspicuous for courage, honor and kindness.

For the first 27 years of his life, the King had little anticipation of assuming royal responsibilities. He was born in 1865, the second son of King Edward VII. His youthful training was in the navy with his older brother Prince Albert. In 1893 he married Princess Victoria Mary, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Teck, and his first son, Albert Edward was born in 1894. It was in 1892 that he became heir apparent through the death of Prince Albert.

In 1901 he made his memorable tour of Canada, South Africa and opened the first parliament of the Commonwealth of Australia. In 1901 also he was proclaimed Prince of Wales, as his father ascended to the throne. Again he visited Canada in 1908, at the time of the Quebec Centenary, and in 1910 was promoted to Admiral of the Fleet.

He succeeded King Edward VII in 1910. During the Great War, he was indefatigable in maintaining the morale of land and sea forces, visiting the battle fronts and naval bases. When he visited the front in 1915 he was thrown from his horse and injured. In 1921 he inaugurated the first Parliament of Northern Ireland, and in 1923 he and Queen Mary visited the Vatican at Rome.

A critical attack of influenza visited him in 1924, and a more serious illness in 1925. In 1928, another serious illness being congestion alarmed the nation, and there was general rejoicing at his recovery.

Official duties since his recovery have included the opening of the naval conference and first Indian round-table conference; the sending of a stirring message to the Imperial Conference in Ottawa; opening the world economic conference in London. In 1934 the marriage of Prince George and Princess Maria of Greece was a happy event in royal circles. In 1935 the great Silver Jubilee anniversary brought such an ovation from the British Empire as has rarely been known. It was equalled possibly by the demonstration when Queen Victoria celebrated her diamond jubilee in 1897.

No attempt can here be made to dwell upon the innumerable instances in which King George has moved to avert sectional and national disputes and cleavages. His influence when called into play has been strong, diplomatic and telling. His record is one of the greatest and most impressive in British history.

Former Tutor King Edward VIII Relative of Rev. E. G. Hansell

According to information received our present member of parliament Mr. E. G. Hansell, is a distant relative to the late tutor of the Prince of Wales, now our King Edward the eighth.

According to a news dispatch the Prince's tutor Mr. Henry Peter Hansell died recently at the age of seventy-one. The dispatch follows, Mr. Hansell had no more liking for state ceremonies than has the Prince of Wales. Indeed it has been said that it is he who taught the Prince his love of informality.

Mr. Hansell had been educated at Malvern and Magdalen College, Oxford, and had done well, but it was the report of Hansell's character rather than his intellectual attainments that decided the King's choice.

Mr. Hansell had also been tutor to Prince Arthur of Connaught and to Prince Nicholas of Rumania. He also had a wide experience in naval and air craft corps. In 1919 he was appointed Gentle Usher to the King and there was general regret in the Royal household when he became the extra Gentleman Usher.

The Lethbridge Herald in commenting on the life of the Prince says, "His tutor, Mr. Hansell, was one of the most active agents in the moulding of the Prince's earlier life, and the implanting of certain great principles, which are outside of the routine of the Royal Palace. Mr. Hansell ordered hours of work, organized leisure, supervised conduct and arranged holidays and amusements, in building the ground work of a general education."

The young Prince was not instructed in the wearing of the crown but taught to "play the game." An isolated individual in a royal apartment, he was to be a unit of community spread over the empire, and he quickly realized that although his father, Mr. Hansell and duty expected a tremendous lot of him, he felt that he had to do what he could about it.

Mr. Hansell, our member is ascertaining the exact relationship between the Prince's tutor and himself

John Corbett Kennedy Dies at Ripe Old Age

John Corbett Kennedy, aged 90 years and 13 days, died at the home of his son, Mr. A. J. Kennedy, west of Vulcan, on Thursday, January 17th. He had been declining in health during the past three years and the end was not unexpected.

He was born on January 4th, 1846, at Rupert, Quebec. During the early years of his manhood he was interested in the lumbering business and followed the trade for a good number of years. In the early days of the settlement of Western Canada, Mr. Kennedy came West to Winnipeg and took up farming. Giving up farming, he moved to the United States for a number of years. In 1917 he came to Alberta, settling in the Vulcan district, being a resident of this territory since that year. He was predeceased by his wife four years ago, also by two daughters and one son. One son, A. J. Kennedy of Vulcan survives.

Funeral services for the late J. C. Kennedy were held from the Vulcan United church Sunday, January 19th, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. P. G. McPherson conducting. A large number of friends of the deceased attended the last rites. Interment was made in the Vulcan cemetery under the direction of the Snodgrass Funeral Home. George and Stewart Galbraith, James Lucas, Jim Shaw, Ross Clark and G. McQueen acted as pallbearers.

Vulcan Girls Defeat Nanton 2-1 and Local High School Boys Take Nanton Students to Camp With 4-2 Score

Vulcan hockey fans, numbering about 150 took advantage of the opportunity of witnessing a double bill-of-fare at the arena on Friday evening when the lads and lassies from the Nanton and Vulcan High Schools gave an exhibition of the puck chasing art. Playing three 15 minute periods, the Vulcan girls were successful in turning back the attack of the visiting girls with a 2-1 score. The Vulcan high school team was just as successful in its game with the Nanton students. They won with four points chalked up against Nanton's two.

Mayor King refereed the girls in the first game of the evening and seemed to keep the play well in hand. In the first period the Misses Archibald with C. Ransome kept the puck airily well within the Vulcan territory. Finally L. Archibald scored the visitors on a rebound from her sister's stick. A few moments later, things were evened up when Misses Thompson and Parsons combined for a tally. The tables turned in the second frame. Hemmed within their own blue line the visitors were faced with a barrage of pucks. The Ulrich sisters combined for Vulcan's winning goal in the frame. Power play by Nanton proved ineffective in the final stanza, E. Peterson in the local net turning the disc away time and again. It was a closely contested match with plenty of thrills and excitement for the fans.

On the Vulcan line-up appeared: E. Peterson; H. Arney, E. Jennijohn, V. Brown; L. Ulrich, H. Clarkson, M. Ulrich, M. Parsons, L. Thompson; G. Anderson, R. Peterson, J. Robson and J. McQueen. With the visitors were C. Wrench, R. Dick, Rena Dick, J. Wilson, and L. Archibald, C. Ransome, M. Patterson, A. Sweeten, G. Lee, B. Lee, and I. Smith.

Playing a regular game in the schedule of the Foothills High School league the locals managed to gain a 4-2 win over the Nanton team. The boys produced some fast but rough hockey in the first frame and George Monkman, who refereed the game, sent four players to the box to cool their heads within the first three minutes of the game. L. Hunter scored first for the visitors, the only tally of the frame. The middle stanza gave the fans many thrills with both teams playing wide open hockey. In this period the Vulcan boys scored three, Bill Weale sagging the hemp twice on assists from Ulrich and Fisher, and Craig scoring on a neat pass from G. Hill. Nanton came back strong to chalk up another before the period ended, B. Bridget scoring on a pass from Hunter. Nanton, one mark down tried hard to score in the final stanza. Their attempts to storm the Vulcan fort were without avail and their power play only gave the locals another opportunity to tally when Fisher netted one from Ulrich's stick.

Nanton—J. Allan; G. Jones, B. Coote, A. Wheeler; B. Bridgett, C. Rockett, B. Mackay, D. Armstrong, V. Bridget, L. Hunter.

After the games Vulcan acted as hosts to the visitors from Nanton, serving lunch in the United church hall.

KING GEORGE V

At this time when the entire British Empire is mourning the passing of a great monarch, it seems appropriate to reproduce some lines from "The King's Grace," the book written last spring by Lord Tweedmuir, Governor-General of Canada.

"The historian must record that the King has added to the duties of the Crown a graciousness which springs from his own character. He has given the ceremonial the bloom of friendliness. He has always possessed a high seriousness and the note of faith and piety which he has often struck has not been the mere convention of his office. He has walked securely in more difficult constitutional paths than any of his immediate predecessors. He has faced courageously crises which imperilled both his people and his Throne. But in addition to all this, he has diffused a spirit of simplicity and charity which has profoundly affected the national temper. His quick sympathy and kindness have warmed the country, and done something to warm the chilly world. When nerve was breaking his steadfastness restored it, and when strife was fermenting he has spoken the healing word. The power of the Throne lies in what it is, but the authority of the King lies both in what he is, and in what he has done. With the Queen and his family to aid him, he has made Britain not only a nation but a household.

"Leadership does not consist only in a strong man imposing his will upon others. In that sense it has no meaning for a British Sovereign. But in a far profounder sense the King has shown himself a leader, since the true task of leadership is not to put greatness into humanity, but to bring it out, as the greatness is already there. That truth is the basis of religion, the only justification for democracy, and the chart and compass of our mortal life. The King has led his people, for he has evoked what is best in them."

WHO PAYS TAXES?

When will people realize that an increase in taxes, whether it be by the town council or by Mr. Hepburn, or by Mr. King, is a tax on every one of them. The man standing around out of a job throws up his hat and gives a cheer when any tax-imposing body declares for new and higher taxes. Foolish fellow. The few clothes and little food he does get for himself and his family will be still harder for him to get because of these taxes. And yet a great many people, because they have little, fancy that they should shout for some men, or party, announcing that they propose to take more taxes from those who can pay. Those who can pay! That means YOU whether YOU have $10 or $10,000. And it's time YOU realized this.—Renfrew Mercury.

REMAINING IN POLITICS

When the U.F.A. meets in annual convention this week, one of the most important decisions will be the continuance or abandonment of the political aims of the association. Before this appears in print the decision will probably be made. It is altogether likely that an organization which has held power over a province for fourteen years, directing legislation and policies will elect to continue active politically. No group, having once tasted the heady wine of authority, is likely to withdraw from the field as a result of one defeat, even though that defeat be overwhelming. Important personalities at the provincial convention should be the Ottawa contingent of Progressives who also were defeated in the Federal election, but who include some of the most able men of the West. They, no less than Provincial leaders, have taken great pride in the development of the party politically, and would be reluctant to see the U.F.A. revert to a body concerned mainly with social and educational interests. This is the first convention since the U.F.A. was dethroned in the province, and it will be somewhat disconcerting for delegates to realize that resolutions so bravely discussed and carried will be nothing more than resolutions. They are no more the voice of the people, and will probably receive exactly the same consideration as Liberal or Conservative resolutions would have received at the hands of the old U.F.A. government. It is a difficult business to rebuild political enthusiasm, without one representative in the legislature.

Although there are many who contend that the U.F.A. gave good government during its regime, there is no question that it became increasingly a class government, especially in recent years. And there was something ironic in the fact that it was defeated by those to whom it gave the greatest concessions, concessions which in some instances were out in the lasting interest either of the individual or the province.

There are prophets in the land, who venture to predict the future of unpredictable Alberta. They see in the crystal a relatively short term of office for Social Credit, but no return to the U.F.A. party, nor to Liberals nor Conservatives. It is forecast that a new prophet may rise and sweep all before him. It would seem that Liberals, Conservatives and U.F.A. should face that possibility together.

It is the history of new parties that they become cautious and conservative once they gather in the reins of power. If Premier Aberhart can succeed in his avowed purpose of balancing the provincial budget, if Alberta should be caught up in the wave of better times which is said to be pending, Social Credit beliefs regarding dividends might very conceivably fade into the background. But if times do not improve for the people generally, there will be great dissatisfaction and the tendency will be not to return to old parties but to strike out after something new.

To meet such an emergency, and to keep the country on even keel, it is necessary that the U.F.A. and the other old parties pay less attention to party dominance, and more attention to a non-partisan, non-political, business government.

RUDYARD KIPLING

For almost half a century, the public has been revelling in the writings of Rudyard Kipling, and his death removes one of the most colorful word painters of our time. Hugh Walpole, in commenting upon his passing, has said: "He has had the misfortune or the luck, to live on into a world to which he does not really belong. He has been out of sympathy with the changing viewpoints. But if he had died forty years ago, the whole civilized world would have been shaken from end to end."

It is true that in recent years his writings have not commanded as great popularity as in earlier years. But forty years ago, even thirty or twenty years ago his appeal was tremendous, and the variety and versatility of his writing delighted all ages. Any child is the poorer if he has not listened wide-eyed, to the jungle tales, to the adventures of Mowgli and Rikki-Tikki-Tavi, to the story of the elephant that lost his trunk, and the great, gray-green, greasy Limpopo River.

Forty years ago his "Stalky and Co" was the delight of the schoolboy and a worthy and witty successor of "Tom Brown's School Days." It is hoped that this classic of youth still holds its deserved place in junior libraries.

He was a great Imperialist, and he interpreted his India in story and verse, as no other writer has done. He was a master of phrasing and delineation.

His "Barrackroom Ballads," "Seven Seas," and other books of verse captured the ear with their rollicking rhythm and stirring themes, and he was rightly regarded as the "poet of Empire." His "Light That Failed," "Plain Tales from the Foothills," "Kim," "Soldiers Three," and so on, are distinctive contributions to the reading world. His "Recessional," written in commemoration of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee will probably be recited by school children for generations to come, and Canada was immortalized fairly or unfairly by him in "Our Lady of the Snows."

It is startling to realize how many phrases and quips which were coined by Kipling are in everyday use, and without any conscious tribute to the gifted originator. Amongst these, what is there more familiar than "The White Man's Burden," "East is East and West is West and Never the Twain Shall Meet," "A Woman is Only a Woman, but a Good Cigar is a Smoke," "The Colonel's Lady and Judy O'Grady Are Sisters Under the Skin," and Mulvaney with his "Oncet I was a Corp'r'l Now Rayjuiced."

One could go on indefinitely recalling those picturesque characters, vitalized by the magic pen of Kipling. It is not surprising that he and Mark Twain found each other so companionable. Mark Twain said of him "He is a most remarkable man and I am another one. Between us we cover all knowledge; he knows all that can be known, and I know the rest."

A born story teller, a delightful humorist, an interpreter of the empires beyond the seas, the English speaking world mourns a great man, whose works will live after him.

FINANCIAL REPORTS

The years keep rolling round and round, and we are again in the season of financial statements. There are several statements in this issue, and these should prove the most interesting features of the paper. They summarize the business of the town or district, the business of you and me—during the last year. They tell of all that has been taken in, and all that has been disbursed and for what purpose.

The financial statements indicate just how business is being conducted by the representatives, and what progress if any, has been made by the community during the past year. They give an interesting picture of earnest citizenship and of municipal management.

Stocktaking in private business is the order of the day, and citizens generally are making up their books, to learn how they stand personally, where reductions may be made, where outlay has been justified, and what relation exists between receipts and expenditures. The standing of the municipality is of no less importance to every taxpayer.

Self interest and community interest should prompt everyone to study these financial statements so painstakingly prepared and presented. They represent in brief form, all the administration of the past year. In the background are many hours of deliberation on the part of councillors and secretaries, many business councils and a great amount of time expended outside of the regular meetings.

There may be facts and figures in the statements which are not clearly understood by the ratepayer. And the time and place to present questions is at the annual meetings which are coming up shortly. The annual meeting should be a very important event in any community. It is there that a detailed explanation of all business is given by the councillors. Whether ratepayers attend in a spirit of criticism or a spirit of commendation, they should at least attend. It is a duty which they owe themselves and a courtesy which they owe their representatives.

SEED OATS

It has been announced frequently through the press and by circular, that there is a real shortage of seed grain in the province. Farmers have been advised to take nothing for granted in the seed which they are setting aside for spring sowing. All grain should be tested for germination and if it does not meet requirements, there is still time to apply for suitable seed.

The experience of some of the farmers in this district is that their grain is of better quality than they had supposed. They have tested samples and have realized very satisfactory results. When government approval is secured for these oats, they should find ready sale in the district. There have been reports of some delay in securing the government approval on samples sent in, and it is important that any favorable returns be sent back promptly in order that information may be given as to available seed in the neighborhood and that local farmers receive the benefit of the current demand.

It is an advantage both to buyers and sellers to deal within the locality if possible, and very good results have been obtained through advertisement in the local paper.

The shortage of good seed appears to be so prevalent, particularly in the northern part of the province, that the usual sources of government supply will be taxed to fulfill orders.

For this reason it is advisable that all farmers make tests at once, without assuming too much, either as to quality or fitness of the grain on hand.

OLYMPIC HOCKEY TEAM MIXUP

Sport fans over Canada have been following with varying degrees of interest or cynicism, the processes of the C.A.H.A. in assembling the Canadian Olympic hockey team. Four players from the Halifax Wolverines after being invited to join the lineup and brought to Toronto, were calmly told by Gilroy, president of the C.A.H.A. that they would not be on the team. It was in no placid humor that these players returned to face their home towns. It was alleged that they asked for money with which to keep their families while abroad. This seems to be denied, and apparently it was a complete surprise to the four Wolverines to find themselves out on the steps. Only Toronto seems to know the secret of it all, Toronto the omnipotent.

One element of sport opinion contends that there should be an Olympic fund, available either through sport organizations or through the government to take care of such situations as possibly do exist with Wolverine players, in which some support be given the families of outstanding athletes during their absence. In this way Canada would be ensured of the best representation.

"Action of the C.A.H.A. in booting four members of the Dominion's Olympic hockey squad out of the picture, because they 'demanded' adequate finances with which to provide for their families during their absence, will doubtless cause more belly-laughs than the Hot Stove leaguers have enjoyed for some time.

"I wouldn't mind betting that there is not one member of the so-called Port Arthur Bearcats who are simon-pure amateurs in every sense of the word. I've been poking my nose into athletic affairs long enough to know that any blige along these lines is just—blige.

"Judge J. A. Jackson made a trite statement to me yesterday when speaking of the action of the governing hockey body.

"It takes a rich man to be amateur," said the judge.

"Never was truer word spoken. The rich man's son, with his jeans full of money, makes the trip to the Olympics on an absolute amateur basis. The less financially fortunate, but perhaps more talented athlete, sucks his thumb at home because it would be sinful for him to accept needed monetary re-imbursement. What a laugh it is!

HAVE YOU A HOBBY?

It pays to have a hobby. A friend of mine began ten years or more ago to read in a special field of interest. Perhaps it was because of its being known that he was ahead of most others in knowledge of his special subject that he was asked to deliver a course of lectures on his pet subject. For ten years he has given this course of lectures, $500 a year. Making a total of $5,000 out of one hobby—this as money on the side—is a pleasant experience. I just pass on this story, for it may encourage some young man to pursue a hobby which may lift him into some sort of eminence and put an army of iron men into his bank—J. C. Kirkwood in Marketing.

PREDICTIONS PROVE ACCURATE

William Bailey, 35-year-old Toronto painter and decorator who reads minds and forecasts events, predicted a few days ago Bruno Richard Hauptmann would be granted a reprieve and would some day be proven an extortioner but not the murderer or kidnapper of the Lindbergh child.

Today Bailey admitted he never expects any of his forecasts to be accurate. He doesn't claim prophetic powers. He answers dozens of letters weekly from many parts of Canada, giving advice to ill and despondent people, but he doesn't charge them. This hobby costs him money because he buys so many stamps.

At a party two years ago he predicted the month in which Marie Dressler would die; the death of the King of the Belgians by a fall; the assassination of Austria's Chancellor Dolfuss; the invasion of a small country by Italy, the failure four times in the next seven years of the Argentine wheat crop.

His list two days ago included these forecasts: Mussolini will be assassinated; the skeleton of Ambrose Small will be found next September and the Toronto theatre magnate's murderer is dead; the St. Lawrence waterway plan will be undertaken in 1937; there won't be a world war for 17 years; a cancer cure will be proven by next August and a tuberculosis vaccine developed during 1936 and Canada will enjoy an 11-year span of prosperity before the next economic crisis.

A BASIC DIVIDEND ASSOCIATION

Mr. A. S. Shandro of Edmonton is going ahead with the organization of the Alberta Basic Dividend Association and purposes establishing locals throughout the Province.

It is planned to have a delegation wait on the government during the coming session and demand that dividends be paid.

The whole scheme looks like a political move to embarrass the government.

Hon. Mr. Aberhart made it plain that it would be at least 18 months before he could hope to pay dividends promised and on Sunday we understand asked for a further extension of six months.

The government will not need any delegation of Basic Dividenders to further hamper them. They are having sufficient troubles at present to simply carry on, and Albertans generally should do nothing to hinder them for the outlook is certainly black and unless the Dominion Government comes to the assistance of the province it is questionable if the present government can go on much longer.

The Basic Dividenders voted Mr. Aberhart and his followers into office and they at least should give them every assistance instead of organizing to hamper their efforts.—Innisfail Province.

DEBATING U F A POLITICAL FUTURE

G. G. Coote Presents Arguments For and Against; Majority Vote Favors Activity

Mr. G. G. Coote, ex-member for Macleod riding, was the principal speaker at the U.F.A. meeting held on Friday afternoon. His talk proved most interesting as he discussed arguments for and against the continuance of the U.F.A. as a political body. He drew no final conclusions, leaving the matter entirely in the hands of the local. A vote was taken however before the meeting closed, and a majority of those present approved the U.F.A. continuance in politics.

The speaker approached the question first from the Federal view. Admittedly, he said, the Alberta Progressives were not able to do a great deal without help from sympathetic representatives in other provinces. A query was interjected as to why the Progressives of Ontario had not lined up more effectively, and in Mr. Coote's opinion these men had been Liberals and Conservatives under a new name, but without a new policy.

It is believed he said, that manufacturers, mortgage and other companies, have more influence with the government by staying out of politics. This is due of course, to excellent organization. If the farmers across Canada were solidly organized they might be a very powerful influence, without any direct representation in parliament.

Although the obvious effect of the Progressive effort at Ottawa is perhaps not so apparent as might be wished, these Western representatives have promoted, or been active in many features of legislation for the benefit of Western people. They are perhaps not credited in the public mind, with numerous reforms which they have advocated, or introduced. The fight against high interest rates had been carried on most consistently by Progressives. One notable success, directly attributable to the Western members, and sympathetic Liberals, was the securing of cheaper freight rates through the Crow's Nest route. For ten years this has meant a saving of seven cents a bushel to farmers, marking a concession to Western persistence, that was not duplicated in other parts of Canada. Progressives from Ontario, for instance, did not achieve a similar reduction over Ontario lines.

Turning to provincial politics, the speaker said that numbers of prominent men, non-partisan in feeling, had commended the U.F.A. for fourteen years of good government. This was a tribute which could not be entirely disregarded.

Mr. Coote did criticize the government for not having put proportional representation into effect. The U.F.A. in 1921, urged this system of voting as a fairer indication of provincial support, but had never acted upon their belief, so far as rural areas were concerned. At the last election, the city vote clearly indicated the advantage of the proportional system in electing members in fair relation to the vote. If the rural ridings had been thrown together so that the electorate voted for ten men instead of one man the returns would almost certainly have been a truer indication of the vote. Under the old system, the Social Credit party though getting only 52 per cent of the vote, elected 56 members out of 63.

70 P.C. RELIEF COSTS ON THE PROVINCE

Previously Municipalities Carried 58 Per Cent of Relief

Seventy per cent. of all Alberta municipalities' relief costs will be borne by the province, effective immediately, it was announced by Premier Aberhart.

This proportion replaces the 58 per cent. which the province has paid to the municipalities in the past.

The increase is the result of an increase of $75,000 a month—making a total of $175,000—granted to the province by the Dominion for relief purposes.

Fact that relief costs of all kinds within the province are mounting steadily will prevent the provincial government increasing its allotment to municipalities by the same percentage—75—as the Dominion's grant to Alberta has been increased, the premier said.

"We find that relief costs have increased by 33 per cent. in the last year," Mr. Aberhart said.

Candid Comments on World Events

outhouses into garages, and giving work to lumbermen and carpenters and metal workers. He did not mention the work it gave to wreckers tearing down buildings at street corners and to carpenters building garages or service stations in their place.

The auto has made changes in the political as well as the economic field. Many years ago, there was a stern demand for representation by population. With the growth of cities and large towns, the demand ceased. Even the crusaders for rep. by pop., thought it only fair that area as well as population should be taken into account. It is still taken into account in redistributions but not to the same extent, because the auto has made it possible for members to represent, and candidates to contest ridings of large area. The member who used to complain that his riding was so large he could not keep in touch with his constituents, is not making that complaint now. They keep in touch with him, thanks to the auto and the telephone.

Do not let us kid ourselves. Politicians tell us that the railway situation will right itself as soon as normal business is restored. What they mean is that revenue will care for operating expenses. They do not mean that Canada shall ever get any return on capital expenditure and that in the meantime we shall continue to pay a million a week or whatever is necessary to make up the deficit. Some of them advise writing off a lot of the capital expenditure. It will make the financial statements look better, and as soon as that happens, up will go our operating expense. The management has little or no control over wages, increases and promotions. That is attended to by the brotherhoods, which are international.

In the United States, the Interstate Commerce Commission is not so sanguine. It has issued a statement showing that the return of normal business will not enable railways to pay present rates of wages unless some means is found to enable railways to meet the competition of other forms of transportation. This is apparent to everyone, except railwaymen, and party newspapers and politicians who respect the organized labor vote.

Do you blame your Uncle Sam for not wanting to go to war again? What do you think his pension bill was last year? Six hundred and eighteen million dollars! Besides that, he has confronting him a veterans bonus proposition which will cost him about a billion dollars. The veterans are organized; the politicians want their votes, and there is an election next November.

Last year there were four women drawing pensions for the war of 1812. Twenty years ago there were 77. Three years ago there were seven. The number is gradually decreasing. In a few years there will not be any pensioners for a war that took place 130 years ago. But the people will still be paying for the Mexican war, the Spanish-American and the war of 1917-18. If he is not involved in another war in the meantime, Uncle Sam will have no war pensions to pay in the year 2036, unless the veterans manage to bequeath their pensions to their heirs and assigns forever.

President Roosevelt takes the side of the three dissenting justices of the Supreme Court against the six who declared the A.A.A. unconstitutional. The score is still 6 to 3.

When you consider that he was married four times, John Gilbert, the screen star, lived to a pretty fair age. He died at 39.

The outbreak of Italy is attributed by Sir Alfred Zimmern to an inferiority complex. He says the word "Dago" had a good deal to do with it. We imagine it would be all a man's life was worth to go up to Il Duce and say "Hello, Benito, how does the day go?"

The export of the following fruits and vegetables from Canada is prohibited—apples, pears, quinces, and all deciduous fruits to Australia; raw carrots to Bermuda; potatoes to Cyprus and England; fresh grapes, tomatoes and raw vegetables to Malta; stone fruits (including apricots, cherries, nectarines, peaches, and plums) to the Union of South Africa.

AND SO THE GIRLS GOT THEIR BREAK

Once Every Four Years They May
Pop the Question

According to the story, St. Patrick had no sooner driven the snakes out of Ireland, than he was beset with other troubles. He was walking along the shores of Lough Neagh when he met St. Bridget in tears, and was told that a mutiny had broken out in the nunnery over which she presided, the ladies claiming the right of "popping the question." St. Patrick said he would concede them the right every seventh year, when St. Bridget threw her arms about his neck, and exclaimed "Arrah, Patrick, jewel, I daurn't go back to the girls wid such a proposal. Make it one year in four." St. Patrick replied, "Bridget, acushla, squeeze me that way again and I'll give ye leap year, the longest of the lot." St. Bridget, upon this, popped the question to St. Patrick himself, who, of course, could not marry; so he patched up the difficulty as best he could with a kiss and a silk gown.

To reassure young ladies that there is no loss of dignity in making a proposal an Act of the Scottish Parliament has been discovered, dated 1228. This reads: "Ordonit that during the reign of her maist blessed majestie, Margaret, ilka maiden ladie of baith high and low estait, shall hae libertie to speak ye man she likes. Gif he refuses to tak her to be his wyf, he shal be mulct in the sum of ane hundredy pundes, or less, as his estait may be, except and alwaies gif he can make it appeare that he is betrothit to another woman, then he schal be free."

High River Juniors Defeat Vulcan 6-0

(From the High River Times)
In a fast moving game on local ice Tuesday evening, High River Juniors defeated Vulcanites with a shut-out score of 6-0. The Vulcan boys, despite the score gave plenty of competition and the game was interesting throughout. It deserved better attendance, and fans would have had quite an eye opener on the good style of hockey put up by the juvenile players.

The first period brought one goal, with Wiley scoring on pass from Dick. In the second period A. McNally clipped in the puck in a scramble in front of the goal, and Dick added another with a score on an assist from Perry. In the third period the McNally brothers got two goals. A. McNally scored unassisted, followed by L. McNally who caught a pass from Alvin to send the puck home. The last counter was won by Dick on a pass from Perry.

Vulcan—Lundgren; Wismer, Beingnesser, Campbell; Craig, Weale, Ulrich, Fisher, Nelson, Hill.
High River—Kennedy; Malmberg, Capers, Ballachey; McCaig; L. McNally, Orton; A. McNally, Perry, Dick, Wiley.

FEDERAL LOAN DIRECT TO ALTA

Federal Government Comes to Rescue
To Prevent Alberta Defaulting

Coming to the rescue of the province at a critical moment last Wednesday when $2,000,000 of bonds became due, the federal government furnished assistance. Hon. C. A. Dunning considered it was not in best interests to permit a province to default at a time when a new system to control financial relations between Dominion and provinces was being set up.

This new system is a loan-council scheme evolved by the Dominion-Provincial committee, to place some control upon provincial financing which had come to depend greatly on the federal government.

The advance from Ottawa has no relation to Social Credit policies or their operation, with which the Dominion has no association.

Already $100,000,000 have been loaned the provinces and the current tendency to borrow ceaselessly has made the appointment of the Loan Council desirable. When this council is set up no loans will be given provinces except through the council. And the whole effort will be to make the provinces more self-supporting.

Alberta has two further maturities to meet this year, one of $3,200,000 falling due April 1, and another of $1,250,000 due Nov. 1. Some months ago Mr. Aberhart announced his intention of seeking Dominion guarantee of a heavy loan for the purpose of rehabilitating the province financially.

Premier Aberhart declared January 15 that the province has entered into no agreement with the federal government yet relative to establishment of a loan council to supervise provincial indebtedness.

PROPHECIES

Those who are fond of pasting things in their hats for future reference should not neglect to apply the maulage to the nine predictions which one Gaston Millair of New York has entered in the Forecasts for 1936 Sweepstakes. His prognostications are: (1) The first three months of 1936 will bring a new record in cold weather; (2) Depression will not change until after the presidential elections; (3) Roosevelt will be re-elected in one of the hottest contests in American history; (4) The new administration will be composed of men of action not of planning; (5) Hitler will not see 1937; (6) Col. de la Rouge will become President of France; (7) Italy will have Ethiopia without any war in Europe; (8) Dr. Alexander Alekhine will regain his chess crown; (9) Joe Louis will be world champion.—Left Hand Corner, Lethbridge Herald.

Vulcan Midgets Lose Puck Chasing Contest

(From High River Times)
Vulcan Midgets put up a spirited game against local Midgets on High River ice Friday evening, but they were unable to break the High River machine, and the local boys won their eighth consecutive victory with a score of 6 to 1. High River had the bulk of attack in the first two periods, but in the last period, Vulcan forced the play for a great part of the time into High River territory. Vulcan players are individually very ast skaters, but lacked something of the system of the local boys. Skory distinguished himself by his dependable steady play, and the High River defense attend strictly to their defensive jobs and are rarely caught out of position. The forward lines are keen back-checkers. The first line is very ast and formidable, and the other two lines keep up a system of combination play that is disconcerting to opponents. Interest never lagged throughout the game, and end to end rushes prevailed throughout. Marshall was an outstanding player for Vulcan.

Goals were scored as follows: First period—Hicklin in a lone rush. Second period—Weiser from McCorquodale; Hicklin in a rush to the goal mouth; Wiley on a long high shot. Third period—Hicklin from Wright; Wiley in a long shot from centre ice; and finally, on Marshall's lone rush.

Vulcan—Stack; Robson, Fisher; Fisher, Marshall, Beingnesser; Monkman, Love, Ottewill; McFarlane, Green, Woodward.

Strathmore Win First Exhibition Hockey Tilt

Playing the first of a home-and-home series of exhibition games at Strathmore on Monday evening the Vulcan Elks were defeated by the Red Wings 4-2. It was a slow contest that produced little real hockey. The first frame was mediocre; in the second and third frames the speed of play lived up giving the Strathmore fans something to cheer about, for their puck artists made things quite hot for the Elks. Bill Giroux starred for the Red Wings, scoring all their tallies, and without him the final result of the contest might have been another story. Summary of the game, tells the tale.

First period—1, Strathmore, Wm. Giroux (Collision), 19:57. Penalties: Bastin (2), LaRoche (2), VanTighem (2).

Second period—2, Strathmore, Wm. Giroux, 3:30; 3, Strathmore, Wm. Giroux, 10:20; 4, Vulcan, McCartney (Shannon), 14:50. Penalties: Collision (2).

On behalf of the members, Mrs. C. L. Kukendall presented Mrs. J. Marshall with a federated pin in appreciation of her services as president during 1935. Mrs. Marshall replied briefly, thanking the ladies kindly for their gift and co-operation.

Miss Buelah Walker, L.A.B., presented a musical half-hour to the members, assisted by Miss Rose Hartwig, Mrs. M. Stott and Mr. William Walker. This entertainment was a real treat and much appreciated.

Two hours of talking motion pictures is a feature announced by Arme Motor in our advertising columns this week. Six subjects including two comedies are listed on the programme. These pictures will be shown in the Canadian Legion hall, Saturday, February 1st, at 2:30 p.m.

A novelty bonspiel is now in progress at the rink of the Vulcan Curling Club. Many mixed rinks have entered and the play is at high pitch as the paper goes to press. The bonspiel opened Wednesday at 2 o'clock. The single competition of the men's club started some time ago is still necompleted.

The new hired man from the city had been sent out to harness the horses. It was a cold winter morning, still dark, and he mistook a cow for a horse. "What's keeping you so long out there?" the farmer shouted from the house. "Say, I can't get the collar over this horse's head. His ears are frozen stiff," replied the new hand.

Grandma Peterson, one of the oldest of settlers in the Vulcan district celebrated her 93rd birthday on Monday, January 13th. During the day acquaintances called on and congratulated her on the occasion of his ripe age. Many who did not visit her sent cards with congratulatory greetings. She entered her 94th year in good health and with a keen mind. Although her memory has dimmed slightly with the years, she still recalls many incidents in her early life. She is able to read and occasionally does handicraft work such as the weaving of rugs.

Guy Walker of Reid Hill was a caller at the Advocate office Tuesday afternoon recalling many incidents in his life before the turn of the century. Speaking of John I. McFarland, he said that he first met him in 1897 when he was private secretary to N. Bawlf who then headed the Northern Elevator Co. Mr. Walker was at that time foreman of an elevator construction crew for Northern Elevators. The incident was timely for Mr. Walker expects to attend the complimentary banquet to be given Mr. McFarland by the farmers of Alberta at Hotel Palliser, Calgary, on Friday February 7th, commencing at 12 o'clock. Mr. Walker urges as many to attend from this district as possible. Tickets for the affair may be obtained from him, B. J. Mensinger or at King's Drug Store.

Howard Burrel returned to Vulcan on Wednesday of last week after a visit of several weeks at United States coastal points.

Carmangay will welcome the members of the Vulcan Amazons, High school girls hockey team on Saturday, January 25th. The locals will oppose the Carmangay girls and expect to report a victory.

Mr. E. G. Hansell, M.P. leaves Vulcan on Thursday for Ottawa. He expects to stop off at Winnipeg for a preaching engagement on Sunday and then join Mr. John Blackmore, M. P. in a social credit speaking engagement, on Monday.

On Sunday in the Vulcan United church, Rev. Peter Dawson, M.L.A., will present the message at both the morning and evening services. As Mr. Dawson leaves for Edmonton shortly to assume his duties as member of the legislature representing the Little Bow Riding his message on Sunday will be of special interest.

H. B. Ulrich, John Deere farm implement agent for Vulcan district, announces the annual John Deere day in this issue of The Advocate. A coming event of much interest to Vulcan and district will be the lecture by Capt. H. G. Scott of Calgary, ex-police magistrate, planned under auspices of the Vulcan Branch of the Canadian Legion.
